

The Emerging Pathogens Institute

Presents

Professor Rajae El Aouad

Director, National Institute of Hygiene, Ministry of Health

Morocco

Emerging and Reemerging Infectious Diseases: Morocco's NIH Approach

Thursday, October 4, 2007

12:00 Noon - Room C1-4, Communicore

Dr. El Aouad's research interests are broad and include: HIV and STDs; immunology; and surveillance-based epidemiology. The Moroccan Institute of Hygiene has developed national efforts related to pharmacological and toxicological defense, as well as strategies to survey and protect the environment relative to industrial and other pollution. The NIH actively supports a National Observatory of Human Pathogens, and fosters projects that examine the impact of environmental pollution on human health.

Please join us in welcoming Dr. El Aouad and enjoy her presentation that will contrast research and surveillance strategies from around the world.

Emerging Pathogens Institute

Box 100009, Bldg. 62, Newell Drive
University of Florida Campus

Phone (352)273-7526
<http://epi.ufl.edu/>